Cookies Policy

In order to analyse and improve this website, we use Google Analytics software. Google Analytics generates "cookies" that are text files placed on your computer. A cookie is a small data file that is transferred to your device (e.g. your phone or your computer) which collects information, including personal information about you.

The information gathered by Google Analytics includes cookies, your IP address, your behaviour on the website and a random number. This information is transmitted, anonymized and stored on Google servers. Anonymized data will be used to make reports on the use of this website. Google may transmit and store this information on servers outside of Ireland, which may include the United States, Europe or Asia, or transfer it to third parties where required to do so by law, or where such third parties process the information on Google's behalf.

You may refuse the use of cookies by selecting the appropriate settings on your browser, however please note that if you do this you may not be able to use the full functionality of this website. By using this website, you consent to the processing of data about you by Google in the manner and for the purposes set out above.
